THE LOTUS

1936

Yearbook
of
Peace Junior College

Raleigh, North Carolina

DEDICATION

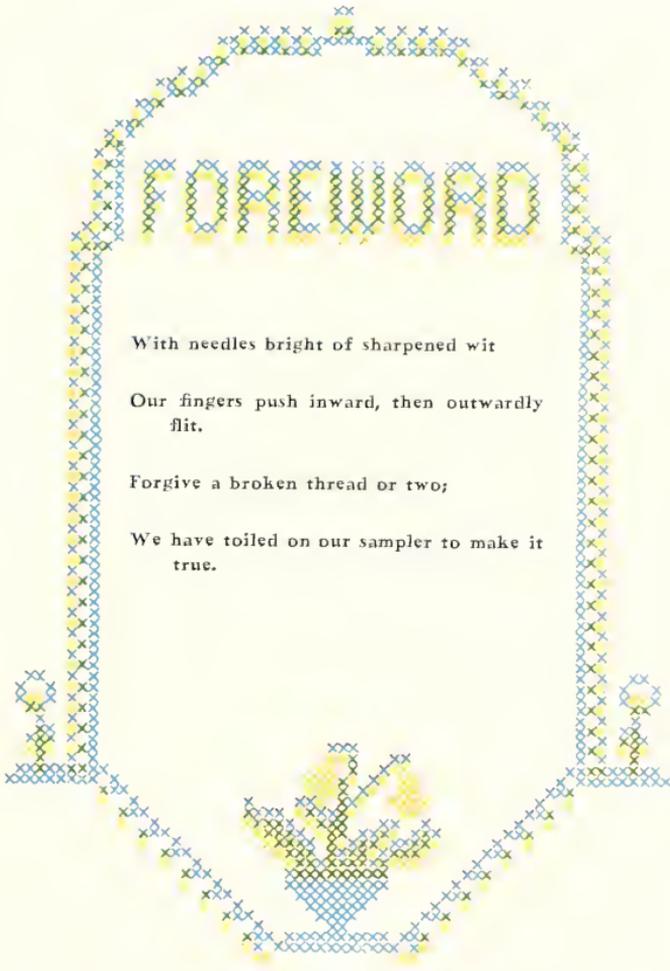

The ideal Peace girl after graduation continues to honor Peace by her services to her home, church, city, state, and nation. As homemaker, mother, and church and civic worker, she magnifies still the name of her Alma Mater.

"She keeps a sweet and gentle spirit
In spite of fame or fortune, rank or place."

The students of Peace wish to dedicate THE LOTUS of 1936 with loving reverence to one who impersonates this Peace ideal:

Mrs. Mary Burwell Lacy

Daughter of one of the founders of Peace
Student of Peace
Mother and Grandmother of Peace students
Neighbor of Peace for many years
Member of Peace Building Committee, 1928
Trustee of Peace

FOREWORD

With needles bright of sharpened wit

Our fingers push inward, then outwardly flit.

Forgive a broken thread or two;

We have toiled on our sampler to make it true.

In Memory of
MRS. MARGARET MERRIMAN KENNEY

Sometimes at the gayest of seasons the saddest moments come. Do you remember the day we left for Christmas vacation? As we left many of us said, "Good-bye, Mrs. Kenney. And Merry Christmas!" In her own delightful way she too wished us a Merry Christmas—and good-bye. Many of us sent greeting cards—a last remembrance.

When school reopened, one of us did not return—Mrs. Kenney. And yet—in every corner is a memory of that loved one. At her table we miss the "thumbsup" signal when the meal is finished. In the hall we miss the words "All aboard!" as she stepped into the elevator for a trip upstairs. Many a time a play or pageant would have been less complete without her gracious lending. We shall miss the interest taken in our personal friends. Many of us had some little secret we would share with her alone. We shall miss helping her into the little red car for the ride she loved so well.

It is the little things in life that make us love a person. When the loved one is gone, those little things are what we remember. We miss Mrs. Kenney not only as the alumnae secretary and as a gracious lady, but also as a friend and one of us.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

(With Apologies to Chaucer)

When warm September, bearing fruitage sweet,
The summer's end had gaily rushed to meet,
Then youth must make a lengthy pilgrimage,
Hearts brave and steadfast holding staunch courage.

And specially from every county's end,
From mountain and from ocean they did wend
The blissful shrine of wisdom for to seek—
Some strong, and sooth to say, some woeful weak.

Befel upon a clear, crisp autumn day
At this fair, goodly school they made delay,
To pray for guidance on their lofty quest
For knowledge, filled with eager hope and zest.
There came to this serene vicinity
Full five and sixty in a company
Of sundry maidens, who by chance did fall
In happy fellowship, Peace lovers all.
The chambers and the corridors were wide,
With rich and lavish furnishings inside,
And well we all were comforted at best.
And shortly, ere the group had gone to rest,
To each we spoke, and each we gazed upon,
So that we were of fellowship anon.
The manner shall be told you without fail;
For thus proceedeth the historian's tale:

Leaders we chose; more worthy were there none,
Who from the time when they had first begun
To counsel us, loved gentle chivalry,
Truth and honor, learning and courtesy.
First, stately Glenn; to uphold her and to aid
Came Stella fair, sedate and winsome maid.
The next year of our Lord we chose anew—
The charming Peg and lively Robbie Sue.
A learned clerk was there, as you shall hear,
Whose minutes and whose records were held
dear;

Her parchments and her pens always at hand,
Full ready was this maid to take command:
The best of all the scribes in Raleigh town
Was chosen twice, Papyrian Edith Brown.
And for each year a worthy treasurer—
Small gold had each of them in her coffer—
But all that they could of their book-mates get
They spent on annuals and many an ancient debt.

The performers of this task for our brief stay
Were Jones and Hunt, best bankers of the day,
And scholars had we, brilliant in array;
Full ninety and above their average lay;
Sagely they spoke, with long and lucid speech,
And gladly would they learn, and gladly teach.

Divided were we in our company
By two great guilds of ancient rivalry.
Are not their names familiar to you?
Sigma Phi Kappa, and Pi Theta Mu.
And sundry sports had we of lively kind
To please the eye and freshen up the mind.
And also these did shorten much our way:
The sumptuous feasts, the yearly famous play
By Pi and Sig, and never would they rest
Till each had spoken well, and staged her best.

Now I have told you briefly, in a clause,
Our destination, number, and our cause,
And I beseech you to forgive it me
If I have not set folk in their degree
Here in this story as they all should stand.
My wit is short, ye well can understand.

(Here endeth the historian's tale.)

SHIRLEY ANN WHITLOCK.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

During the decade since I left Peace,
I've worked to perfect a flying steed.
Since he is finished and my labors cease,
I'll mount him at once and with great speed
I'll leave this land on a journey to go,
To see what the Peace girls now achieve.
Having dubbed my horse wood Autogiro,
I pack my saddlebags and leave.
As it's lonesome flying with no birds near,
I proceed to turn on the radio
To be found in Autogiro's right ear.
The voice is familiar, the program, I know,
Is the hour for Farm and Home advice
Which Meredith Holderby sagely will state:
Our Pi executive, calm and precise,
Now tells the farmer to hose the row straight.
The program ended, I turn the dial;
The police department makes a report:
A criminal's caught and brought to trial
(Our G-woman Willard sent the man to court).
At this, Autogiro switches his tail;
He leaps o'er a cloud and bucks in the air.
I know this sign can never fail;
A screw is bound to be loose somewhere,
A parachute grabbing from the saddlebag.
I place Autogiro under my arm;
I feel myself hitting earth with my nag,
And see an old friend looking on in alarm.
To my joy it is Holmes, with her fine husband
And three small children standing around;
Her farm, she declares, is the best in the land,
And her children the smartest that can be found.
She says she is going to town to the show,
For the two comedians, Peg and Kit,
Are now so famous that all folks go
To hear and laugh at their Tar Heel wit.
Holmes packs my horse and me in her car,
And while riding along we talk of old days.
Dear Crookie will make herself known afar—
Our Jamaican with the warm-natured ways;
In helping Doolittle's experiments out,
She will let herself be frozen and thawed—
A cure for all ailments without a doubt.
Her fortune we all applaud.
E. Brown, a psychologist of renown,
Studies the Dionnes' daily advancing,
While "Freres" makes good in the capital town
By handling sums and the country's financing.
Kat Denton writes for the Read Awhile Daily
A section on school life called "Goin' to Peace's."
Her latest column makes us laugh quite early,
For she now tells how trouble in Wreckall ceases
When friend Ruth Goodman becomes traffic cop.
Holmes adds that Mabel is now calling heures
For the big square dances at "Johnson's Hop."
While music by "Tiny's" string band allures
The people to rather from city and farm.
We gaze now from the windows upon the crowd
That has come to witness the Pees'—Kit charm,
But above the noise there's a shout very loud;
"Extra! Extra!" calls the nimble newsboy.
"Whitlock makes a car that will burn pure air!"
Shirley Ann has invented a thing we'll enjoy.

The show begins with "Vanity Fair"
And the first to appear is Cathryn Byers,
The famous musician who for pastime
Paints signs advertising the Smooth Floating Fires.
The next of our class is Stella sublime,
Who is running now a puppet show
And lets all good folks come in free.
As for Bill and Meta, ten years ago
They would not leave town, but did agree
To buy "Little Druze" and make the "dopes"
For the Peace girls when they flocked around.
Thus ends the feature, but I regain hopes
When the musicale starts with the familiar sound
Of melodies only our Margie can make.
"The Valve-Pushing Trio," "Skeeter," "Bet, and Rob' Sue,
Are known abroad from the prizes they take;
The Pees-and-Kit show is too good to be true,
But all good things must sometimes end.
And I must hurry along my way;
For I have poor Autogiro to mend.
As I approach, he begins to neigh,
Calling attention to his feeble plight.
"I'll fix the screw," I hear one cry,
And "mechanic Gerber" pulls into sight.
When my steed is mended, I'm ready to fly;
So Gerber climbs up and rides with me.
We wave to Holmes a fond adieu,
And start floating high o'er hill and lea.
While sailing along we talk of the crew.
Mary Kellam and "Jep" are teaching school,
And among the married are "Dury" and Pat.
Now Gerber looks down and points to a pool
And tells me to land in order to chat
With Billie Pope, the lighthouse keeper,
Who sends out the beams that sailors wish;
And where the water runneth deeper
Our "Jinny" Turner raises fish.
When I push the peg for the nag to descend,
He jumps straight forward and starts going up.
"Gerber," I call, "which screw did you mend?"
She answers, "I made a longer cup
For the one that fits the altitude brain."
"Woman," I cry, "we'll never come down.
To push any peg would now be in vain!"
When I look below I can't see the town;
The world is a ball going round and round.
Before very long we pass the moon
And I feel a dizziness profound.
Suddenly the nag seems about to swoon
As he rotates in a peculiar way.
I know we have come to Mars' orbit,
Just how it happens, I now can't say,
But in the middle of Mars we sit,
And to my surprise in a palace yard;
For a queen's rushing forth this sight to see.
"Welcome," she greets, "to my kingdom unmarred
By evils that upset your land's history."
We hat our eyes and we look again;
Our surprise is so great, and so great our mirth
At Miss Davidson's ruling this domain
That we and "Giro" fall back to earth—
So here I am, all safe and sound,
Not a bit the worse for going around.

RUTH WEBB.

SENIOR POEM

Weaving, weaving all year long
 An intricate pattern of multiple threads,
High hopes, sweet dreams of a joyous throng
 We have worked in rich colors of blues and reds.

Warm glints of laughter in golden bliss
 As sunbeams through a lattice stray,
And beauty and wit and all happiness
 Are clustered together in charming array.

The will to do and the courage to dare,
 These shine forth in youth's design;
And each eager hand has done its share
 Its own bright thread through the rest to twine.

And now that our sampler of Peace is done
 We are gay and glad, and yet we would fain,
In spite of our pride at praises won,
 Unravel the threads and start over again.

JUNIOR POEM

J—is for Jollity the Juniors possess;
U—is for Unity we need for success;
N—is for Nimbleness in body and mind;
I—for Integrity precious to find;
O—for Obedience in work and in play;
R—is for Righteousness every way;
S for Sincerity in all we say.

ELIZABETH MARIE WHITTEN.

Stay 'way from my door!
On your mark—

“Pi-faced Mules”—
Dusky duster—
Don't be bashful!

Any luck, Simon?
A crazy concoction—

I pledge allegiance—
Smile, darn you!

The early birds are the lowly worms—
Pensive personalities—
Mama, may I have one?

Front Row: NEDA PENDLETON, DORIS PARKER, ANN PEACE.

During the warmer months golf, tennis, and bicycling are our major interests. The tennis team entered the Tennis Play Day last fall at Meredith College. We were proud to have each of our players return undefeated in her match. During the spring a Peace Golf Tournament was conducted on the Raleigh Golf Course.

Basketball and hockey are our favorite winter sports. They are under the direction of Miss Gladys Waldrop, with chief support from Robbie Sue Black and Iris Kelly, the captains respectively of the Green and White teams.

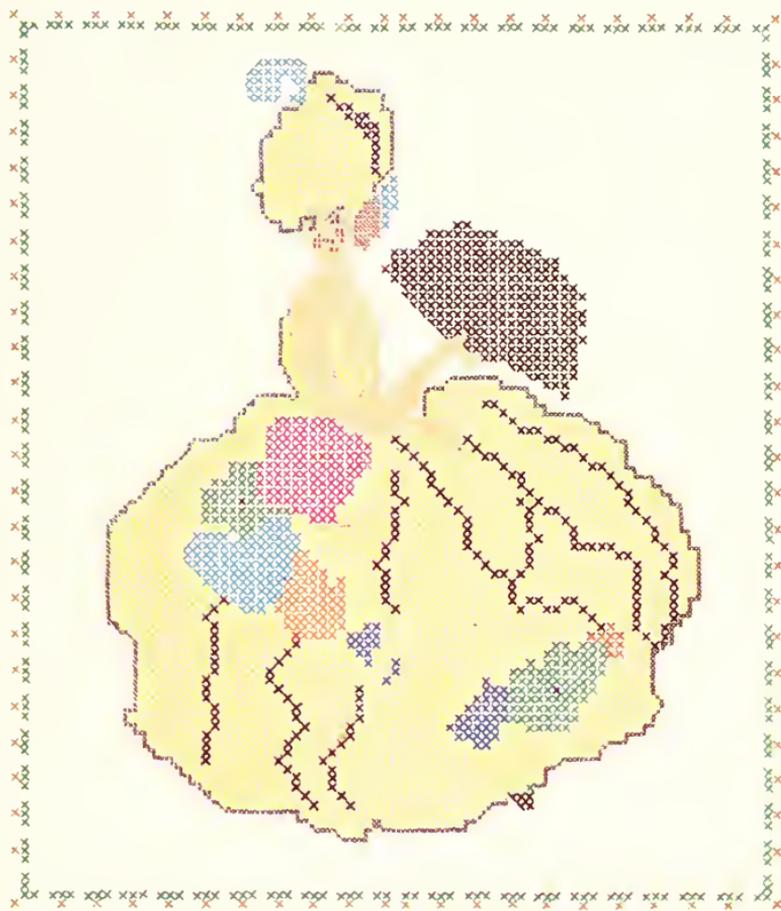

HOCKEY

Athletes from Peace, accompanied by Miss Waldrop, attended the annual College Play Day which was held November 22 at Duke University. These girls took part in various sporting events which included swimming, tennis, and volley ball.

The representatives from Peace were: Meredith Holderby, Elizabeth MacKethan, Ruth Webb, Glenn Willard, Robbie Sue Black, Marjorie Clark, Martha Myers, Betty Hunt, Betty Crook, Ann Peace, Nell Breedlove, Beverly Carey, Sarah Gilbert, Frances Cromartie, Nellie Blue, Muriel Cavanaugh, and Dorothy Ballard.

REVERIE: AFTER A DECADE

Midnight—
 A woman sitting, lost in thought,
 Dreaming—
 And as she dreams, soft strains of the sweetest song sound in her ear—
 "Hail, all hail to Peace!"

Before her tired eyes a vision rises—
 Peace—
 Its gigantic columns,
 Cool, ivy-covered walls,
 Quiet and traditional calm,
 Laughter, young laughter—
 Free from bitterness.

She bows her head as if to shut out the gay noise—
 Light steps and eager cries.
 They persist.
 She smiles—
 Her class was ever persistent.
 Faces, long forgotten, appear—
 Eager faces—disconsolate—
 All are dear to her now.
 Each precious memory of triumph or of heartbreak she clutches.

The far-away chorus swells again—
 "Hail, all hail to Peace!"

Dawn—
 A woman sitting, lost in thought—
 Dreaming.

A CAREER AND YOUR HOME

A promising future is often-times sacrificed on the altar of household drudgery. You have planned a career—yet, you, like all other women, will some day want the pleasures and comforts of a home of your own. Must you abandon the work for which you are prepared in favor of the home? Not in this age of electrical conveniences! You can manage a home successfully and at the same time carry on with your vocation or profession. Electrical appliances will provide you with the necessary time and perform your household tasks efficiently and economically.

Mildred: Is Carthryn very modest?

Pinkie: I should say so! She won't even accompany a man on the piano without a chaperon.

Frankie: Is there anything worse than old and bent?
Louise: Yes, young and broke.

Mary Leona: Don't you think I have a beautiful nose?
Jeannette: Oh, it's pretty good, as noses run.

On Mary Kerr's trip North she stopped at a certain filling station and bought some gas. The attendant asked in a Yankee brogue: How's your oil?

Mary Kerr politely replied: We're all right, thank you. How are you-all?

The Junior says that during her first month at Peace College it seems the only thing she can make is her bed.

As she walked in at three o'clock one morning, her irate parent greeted her thus: "Good morning, child of Satan."

She (sweetly): "Good morning, father."

BUILDERS OF DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material form their vision.

From the art work and engravings to the finished book, is part of our service to many staffs.

Such able cooperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

To those Staffs desiring complete cooperation from art work and engravings to the finished book, we offer unexcelled service. Complete service means undivided responsibility to merge the many ingredients into the finished product.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.
